

Hightower gets Randall votes; so does Simpson

Randall County election officials waited more than an hour Saturday night before precinct workers from three South Amarillo areas could wade out of their polling places to bring the ballots from the primary elections to Canyon.

When they finally arrived shortly before 11 p.m., the returns were all in and showed State Sen. Jack Hightower the big winner in his race for the Democratic nod in the U.S. Congressional district race. Hightower outpolled both Ray Ruffin and Dr. Louis Finney by a two to one margin in the county-wide races.

Incumbent Gov. Dolph Briscoe also polled a vast majority of the votes from Randall County Democrats. He outdid three challengers including Frances Farenthold, who personally campaigned twice in Canyon.

Robert Simpson, Amarillo attorney, dislodged his opponent, Ed Fletcher, Amarillo businessman, to take the Randall Democratic nod in the race for state representative.

Canyon lawyer and state representative Bryan Poff garnered well over 50 per cent of the vote in the race for the Democratic bid for district judge of the 47th district court. He edged out both O.M. Calhoun and Herbert C. Martin in Randall County balloting.

At the county level, Robert E. McClendon, who did not even campaign for office, captured the Democratic nomination for county treasurer by polling 46.11 per cent of the vote compared to 41.57 per cent tallied by Mrs. Fern Patterson.

The referendum issue on the Democratic ballot seeking voter opinion on pari mutuel horse race wagering failed to pass county muster, polling 36 per cent of the vote for and 42 per cent against.

In the Republican county primary, Jim Granberry polled 65 per cent of the Randall County vote to down opponent Odell McBrayer in the gubernatorial nomination race.

AAn anticipated run-off election for county commissioner of precinct 4 materialized during balloting on the Republican ticket as James. F. Rittenberry amassed 10 per cent of the vote while Dee Griffin Sr. got 12.9 per cent of the vote. The other Republican in the race, John McCann, polled few votes in the race.

Randall County Republicans voted down pari mutuel horse race wagering, also, by a slim margin, 56 per cent against to 40 per cent for.

Only a light turnout of both Democrats and Republicans turned out for the Saturday balloting under cloudy skies.

With 30,000 registered voters in the county, the Democrats pulled 22 per cent to their primary election sites while the Republicans had a turnout of only 4.2 per cent of the registered voters.

The Saturday night wait for computerized election returns at the Killgore computer center on the West Texas State University campus was not without some humor as election officials awaited final boxes from three South Amarillo precincts, deluged by heavy rains.

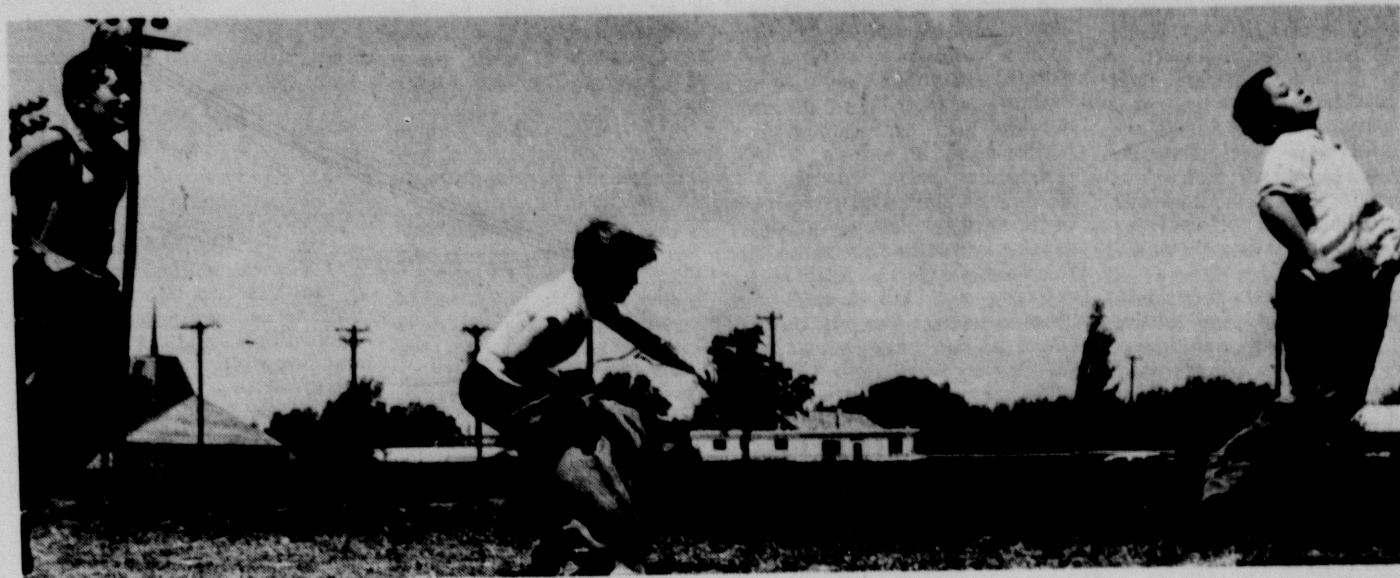

Massive rains in the southern portion of that city flooded in the precinct workers of both parties at Amarillo High School, David Crockett Junior High School and at St. Luke Presbyterian Church.

Hightower, who spent a good deal of time before the election in Canyon and on the campus, received 3800 votes or 52 per cent of the Randall County Democrats vote in his race. Finney polled 22 per cent of the vote and Ruffin received 21 per cent of the vote.

Poff carried all but three boxes in his county win over Calhoun and Martin. Calhoun carried precincts 15 and 19 and the absentee box.

Briscoe tallied 66 per cent of the local Democratic vote while Mrs. Farenthold had 26 per cent. Only one Randall County precinct went for Mrs. Farenthold, the newly created precinct 23 which encompasses WTSU campus.

Only two precincts had Fletcher with the most votes in the state representative race. They were precincts 4 and 12.

Three Rex Reeves elementary students compete violently for the prize in this portion of the track meet held recently.

Amarillo loans top list of donors to Hightower, other campaigns

State Sen. Jack Hightower has been the big spender and also has received the most contributions from the largest number of persons of the three candidates who campaigned for the Democratic bid for U.S. representative of the 13th Congressional district.

Candidates in district and national and state races filed campaign expenditure statements in Austin last week. The statements show expenditures and contributions and loans through last Monday.

The statements indicate Hightower received contributions of $47,340 through Monday in his campaign for the Democratic bid on Saturday's ballot. Expenditures by Hightower in his campaign totalled $45,469.

More than 280 individuals contributed to the Hightower campaign, according to the statements. Largest individual contribution came from J.R. Davenport of Dallas.

The senator received many $500 contributions from such persons as former Sen. Searcy Bracewell of Houston, William J. Helm of Amarillo, W.R. Moore of Vernon, H.B. Dockery of Vernon, J. Ernest Batson of Amarillo, Mrs. Jack Hazlewood of Amarillo, B.R. Evans of Tulia, Jack McCreary of Austin, Pete Gilvin of Amarillo, Mrs. Bonnie Bragg of Amarillo, R.S. Coon of Amarillo, R.T. O'Daniel of Tulia, Wales Madden Jr. of Amarillo, and Bill and Mary James of Austin.

He also received contributions of $500 from the Childress Democratic Committee. He received a $3500 contribution from the Plainview Democrats and a number of small contributions from registered Texas lobbyists, including L.P. Sturgeon of the Texas Medical Association.

He received a $100 contribution from the Texans For Better Transportation, $100 from the Chiropractic Political Action Committee, and $50 from the Rural Friends.

Ray Ruffin, who ran against Hightower in the congressional race on the Democratic ballot Saturday, filed an expenditure statement indicating he received contributions through Monday totalling $31,475.

His expenditure through Monday totalled $29,725. Largest loan to Ruffin was for $17,000 from himself. He lists a total of 81 individual contributions. Largest contributor is Stan Vickers, a Wichita Falls attorney and former assistant district attorney, who made a loan of $10,000 to the Ruffin campaign.

The statement indicates Ruffin received a $1000 contribution from the Committee on Political Education of the Texas AFL-CIO. He received $500 from the Committee on Political Education of the Communication Workers of America and $200 from the Texas State Council of Machinists.

Dr. Louis A. Finney, the third candidate on the ballot in the Democratic primary congressional race, filed a statement indicating he received contributions through Monday of $20,565. Expenditures for his campaign totalled $23,881, according to the statement.

Finney lists a loan to himself of $20,000 on the contribution side and 12 individual contributions. He received $100 each from Amarillo banker V.P. Patterson, Dr. (See DONORS, Page 5)

Loudder to recommend June 4 election, building of complex only

City Manager George Loudder will recommend to city commissioners Monday night that they call a special election concerning construction of a new civic center complex for June 4 and that they vote to build only the complex at a cost of about $1.3 million.

City commissioners meet at 7 p.m. Monday at the community center to give their final go-ahead to plans and specifications on construction of the new civic center. They are expected to call for bids as a result of their meeting.

Loudder said Friday he will recommend the commissioners seek to build only the office building portion of the complex and leave until later construction of a new community center building.

If commissioners approve his suggestion, the total cost of construction would be about $300,000 less than anticipated.

Loudder will recommend that a referendum election be called for June 4 to allow local residents to voice their opinions on whether or not a new civic center should be constructed. Commissioners have previously accepted a petition calling for the election and will probably wait until after the election to seek bids for the construction project.

A cost analysis by HD&R architectural firm indicates construction of the civic complex by itself could total $1,190,088. They put a $242,000 price tag on construction of the community center. Loudder said if the $1.19 million figure remains constant through bid time he foresees the need to expend an additional $200,000 for related architectural fees, financing charges and contingencies.

As currently figured, he said, the remaining architect fee is about $58,000. Finance and attorney fees should total about $12,000, he said. A contingency fee of 5 per cent will also be included.

That brings the total cost of construction, as viewed right now, to about $1,335,000 for the civic complex only.

Loudder said if commissioners accept his recommendation, the construction will necessitate financing on a short-term basis about $250,000.

He said that amount could be financed over a 5-10 year period through issuance of certificates of obligation.

A brochure prepared by the city to explain the financing and the construction project itself will be available for the public later this week, Loudder said.

The brochure will show all financing involved and the effect of the financing on city funds.

Budget and personnel to regents

Next year's operating budget and proposed changes in staff and faculty positions will be the highlight of a Wednesday morning meeting of the West Texas State University board of regents.

The regents will meet at 9:30 a.m. on the university campus. The meeting is open to the public.

Regents will be asked to consider passage of a $12 million budget for the next academic year.

The budget includes expenditures totalling $12,320,000 and income totalling $12,956,565.

Along with the budget consideration will be items on promotion and tenure for faculty members.

Dr. Ray A. Malzahn, vice president for academic affairs, said about 30 faculty members are up to receive tenure and about 40 faculty members will be recommended for promotion to higher ranks.

The board is also expected to receive a report on the number of faculty members who will be released from duties at the university for the 1975-76 school year.

Malzahn said no formulation of that number has yet been made.

Mrs. Bonnie Whittington, office manager of the "TEXAS" office here, shows off a metal poster which will be seen throughout the state soon on numerous tourist-attracting sign-boards. The Canyon Board of City Development financed the posters and their placement.

City to eye new policy on hiring

Canyon city officials will begin work this summer on an affirmative action program for city personnel policies in keeping with growing pressures from federal agencies to insure fair employment practices.

City Manager George Loudder said he will begin work in early summer on the affirmative action program, working out policies for the city which guarantee in writing that the city does not discriminate in its hiring practices.

Loudder said the city is currently under no specific pressure to prepare the program, but can avoid future problems with the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission if the program is put into effect soon.

He said the city is already maintaining special records to comply with EEOC demands. If an affirmative action program is not implemented for the city, Loudder said, the city could be open to charges of discrimination by the EEOC or other federal agencies.

"We feel if we can get one complete this year, we'll be well ahead of the game," Loudder said.

The affirmative action program Loudder must come up with will assure there is no discrimination in the hiring of minority group members, women or persons over a particular age.

"It means we're going to have personnel policies which are color blind, age blind and sex (See HIRING, Page 5)

Word from Austin waited on WT water probe fund

Word is expected from Austin this week or next on the possibility of funding for water resource research to be conducted at West Texas State University.

State Sen. Max Sherman said last week the office of Gov. Dolph Briscoe has received a WTSU proposal for establishment of a water resource research center on the campus and is currently trying to fit the proposal into an overall state plan to study all natural resources.

He said he expects to be notified by the governor's office this week or next on the proposed funding for the project and whether or not WTSU's proposal has been included in the overall plan.

Sherman said the governor's office is currently working on a plan for study of all natural resources, stressing the availability of those resources.

He said the current plan calls for the study on particular resources to be contracted out to various institutions in the state.

He said if WTSU is included to aid in the study of water resources, the proposal would probably not have the study centered totally on the Texas Panhandle. Rather, he said, the study would probably encompass the resource problem throughout the state.

The current governor's office proposal, he said, calls for the study to include one academic year.

University regents at their last meeting in Canyon approved application for funding for a water resource research center on the campus.

Dr. Lloyd Watkins, WTSU president, said the university has a vital interest in the water resources of the Panhandle, resources which form the very foundation for the area's economy.

WTSU Hydrologist Robert Winn originally proposed the concept of a center established here, citing the lack of organized research on the problem particularly in the Panhandle, where groundwater is being depleted rapidly on an annual basis. Apparently, the thrust of the WTSU proposal has been (See WATER, Page 5)

No rate hike is foreseen soon for Neblett Hospital

Canyon's hospital room rates are expected to remain stable at least through January even though federal price controls were lifted last week and now minimum wage requirements become effective.

Ray Grimes, administrator of Neblett Hospital and for the new South Randall County hospital district, said Thursday the lifting of federal wage and price controls will not be impetus here to raise the room rates for Neblett Hospital.

Room rates were hiked earlier this spring to $42 for a single room and $37 for a double room.

But, Grimes said the recent action by the Amarillo Hospital District to raise wages and room rates might have such an adverse impact on his ability to hire qualified personnel that action to significantly raise wages and prices here might be necessary.

The Amarillo district raised wages to comply with new federal minimum wage requirements and also passed along other raises to hospital personnel at Northwest Texas Hospital.

Grimes said the federal minimum wage law did raise salaries for local hospital personnel but that wage hike will be absorbed by the hospital in its operations.

When Amarillo raised wages, the district also raised room and other related charges for patient care.

Grimes said a salary increase was given local personnel on Feb. 1, the date the room rates were also raised.

The administrator said the determining factor in whether room rates will again be hiked will be inflationary trends in all supplies the hospital uses rather than wage increases.

He said the cost per meal at the hospital has risen dramatically (See HOSPITAL, Page 5)

Our World

Balancing Childhood

By ANN BROWN

By the time one reaches physical maturity, the well-adjusted person is composed of three emotional personalities: the child he was born, the person his parents molded him to be, and the adult that developed from the other two.

Unfortunately, however, chronological age does not necessarily produce emotional maturity.

The maladjusted adult usually manifests only two personalities, and the severely maladjusted only one. Some are all stern parent. Others are all selfish child. And still others are sometimes parent, sometimes child, but seldom adult.

According to several reputable psychiatrists, it is possible for parents to completely obliterate the "child" personality. On the surface that may not sound so tragic, but think of the qualities a child possesses.

A child loves, trusts, and forgives. It takes so little to make children happy. They find delight and joy in wild flowers, butterflies, and ice cream cones.

Content just to be near the ones they love, little children can play happily for hours with Mother's pots and pans while she cooks, cleans, or reads.

With the obliteration of the child goes the capacity to trust, to play, and to find joy in simple things.

According to Dr. Eric Berne many of the foolish games "adults" play are substitutes for genuine enjoyment they cannot find because their "child" did not develop into an emotionally mature adult.

According to Dr. Thomas A. Harris, the child who grows up under constant disapproval, will develop one of two attitudes: 1) "You're right, I'm no good; so I may as well kill myself. 2) "You're wrong, I'm all right; you're the one that's no good, so I'll kill you."

The latest statistics report about 9 out of every 100,000 Americans are murdered every year. And for every 3.1 who are murdered, about 4.5 commit suicide.

Especially prone to murder, says Dr. Harris, is the battered child. A recent news report gave the latest police estimate at 3 million battered children in America.

More than 60,000 abused children come to the attention of the police every year. Authorities estimate 5 are beaten or tortured every hour — usually by their parents.

Death certificates indicate more children under 5 die as the result of injuries deliberately inflicted by adults than die from the 5 most common communicable childhood diseases.

According to Dr. W. H. Missildine, excessively punitive parents generate a fierce desire for revenge in the child, which may dominate his entire adult life.

Dr. Missildine lists 8 other excessive parental attitudes which tend to destroy or warp childish emotions:

1. Neglect: The neglected child grows up anxious, lonely, and unable to feel close to anyone.
2. Rejection: The rejected child becomes the lone wolf, unable to accept himself or others. He usually remains convinced he's no good, regardless of evidence to the contrary.
3. Overcoercion: Dawdling, daydreaming, procrastination, and other forms of passive resistance to life are characteristic of the overcoerced child.
4. Perfectionism: When parents are never pleased with less than perfection, the child loses his ability to play, and becomes the adult whose life is an endless round of overserious preoccupation with physical, financial, intellectual, or social accomplishments.
5. Hypochondriasis: The child who is constantly dosed with medicine, and nagged about his health, usually "enjoys" poor health all his life. This provides him with an excuse for inactivity, ill temper, and non-participation in anything he wishes to avoid.
6. Overindulgence: The child whose parents gave in to his every demand remains a perpetual child. He is impulsive, throws temper tantrums, and is so certain he is the center of the universe he shows no consideration for the rights or feelings of anyone else.
7. Overindulgence: The child whose every whim was indulged is the bored adult, who lacks persistence, and has difficulty initiating individual effort.
8. Sexual stimulation: An overemphasis on sex — pro or con — gives a child a complex on the physical aspects of sex, which creates unsatisfactory interpersonal relationships.

So whether the child is destroyed by overcoercion or kept a perpetual child by overindulgence, the result is the same: He is not likely to become a well-balanced adult without professional help. And if one parent is punitive and the other is indulgent, the child may never become an emotional adult.

As parents, what are we doing to our children, and through them — to the world?

Political Meanderings

By CARROLL WILSON

The latest political rumor has it that U.S. Rep. Bob Price, who suffered a heart attack a year ago, will resign his office following Saturday's primary due to health reasons.

I've heard the rumor from various sources during the past week and tried in vain to check it out.

I tried all day Friday to raise an answer at Price's Amarillo office, but the phone rang interminably. I finally called his Pampa office and the worker there was hesitant to even talk to me. She told me to call the Amarillo office.

At any rate, the rumor has it that Price will quit, thus giving the Republicans a chance to name a new candidate for the November ballot.

That candidate, rumor has it, will be Amarillo's Mayor Ray Vahue.

of $20,565, with $20,000 a loan from himself. He showed only 12 individual contributors.

Amarillo Mayor Ray Vahue says he's tired of having the Amarillo city commission characterized as a bunch of guys out to get all they can off Potter and Randall Counties for fire protection fees.

He claims the $850 per fire fee charged by Amarillo to fight false alarms in Randall County rural areas is not an attempt at "gouging."

He's right. It's more like highway robbery.

Equity has not ever been the name of the game when dealing with Amarillo, as we've noted here before.

Amarillo manifests all the worst characteristics of a monopoly. City commissioners' attitude is "we've got the services — you need them — so pay through the nose to get them."

It's the same kind of attitude Amarillo manifests all too often when dealing with its surrounding neighbors.

If Mayor Vahue wants the complaints about "gouging" to cease, let him quit gouging.

Medallion Given Watkins; Dr. Bates Given Honors

The first presentation of the new West Texas State University President's Medallion was made to Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins during Spring Commencement ceremonies Saturday in the Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum.

Designed and executed by WTSU art instructors Emilio Caballero and Darold Dean Smith, the medallion is five inches in diameter and is cast in bronze.

Watkins is the first in the line of WTSU presidents to receive the token of office. Also coupled with the ceremony was the formal installation of Watkins as the university's president by the Board of Regents. Watkins, 46, is the former president of the Iowa Association of Private Colleges and Universities. He began his work at WT last August.

Excellence Award during the Commencement Exercises.

The wife of Raymond W. Bates of Canyon, Dr. Bates received her doctorate of education degree from Texas Tech in 1970. She received her bachelor of fine arts degree in 1950, and her masters of education degree in 1951, both from the University of Oklahoma.

In addition to serving as education specialist for the Panhandle Education Service Organization for three years, Dr. Bates has been vice-president of the Amarillo Classroom Teachers Association, and chairman of the District IX Art Section for the Texas State Teachers Association.

Dr. Bates has published several articles on the value of puppetry for instruction, including "Our Performing Puppet Library" and "Puppetry Lifts Literature," both in Texas Trends in Art Education. Her emphasis is on puppetry as a means of providing enjoyment, literature enrichment, the development of oral language, speech correction, self-concept enhancement and values clarification from kindergarten to grade 12.

Her professional memberships include the National Education Association, Texas Classroom Teachers Association; Association for Childhood Education, Texas Art Educators Association and the American Association of University Women.

Honorable Mention On Huntington Poem

John Stephen Huntington of Canyon has received an honorable mention in the Georgia B. Lucas Poetry Contest at the annual Creative Writing Contests sponsored by the University of Texas department of English.

Huntington's entries were "Not Yet Up" and "An Almost Conversation." The contest involved short stories, poetry, critical essays and other entries with various prizes being awarded.

Letter To The Editor

Thanks To Band Director

Dear Editor:

The Canyon Junior High Symphonic Band has a very special "Thank You" to say to our very special band director, Richard Bales.

When our former director, Gary Laramore, went to Stratford, Texas to take over the high school band there, the Junior High bands were taught by J.W. King, director of the Canyon High School band. Mr. King had a hard job in keeping the Junior High and High School bands running smoothly, but he did it.

When Mr. Bales came to us several weeks later, no one quite knew how it was going to work out. Mr. Bales had to find out what was expected of him, just as we had to find out what was expected of us. Mr. Bales had a hard position to fill, but he did it with hard work, ambition, drive and a wife and family that were always there to help him. With the combined efforts of Mr. Bales and the Symphonic band, we continued our four year tradition of "sweepstakes" at U.I.L. to make this year five years in a row. It was that same effort that led us to also get "sweepstakes" at The Greater Southwest Music Festival. The band also appreciates all of the time Mr. and Mrs. Bales gave to helping band members with solo's and ensemble's. This has been a year of many changes in the Canyon Junior High band department, but the bands and Mr. Bales have worked things out for the best.

Signed,
The Symphonic Band

Joe Lipscomb, Dr. W.H. Whier and Randall Durrett, all of Amarillo.

In state races locally, Democrat Bob Simpson, who ran Saturday for state representative from his district filed a statement showing contributions totalling $6610 and expenditures of $6760.

A total of 29 individual contributors are listed plus loans of $1000 and $2500 from the estate of his late father, Red Simpson.

He also lists a $500 contribution from the Texas Real Estate Political Action Committee and $500 from the Political Action Committee of Texas, Dean Cobb, manager. He also received $100 from Dick Cory, registered lobbyist for the beer industry.

Ed Fletcher, also on the Saturday ballot showed contributions totalling $5275 and expenditures totalling $5145.

He lists 25 individual contributors, including a $4000 loan to himself. Two largest contributors are for $100 each from Amarillo attorney Manning Holland and Martha Kuehnich of Austin, an officer in the Texas Finance Association.

In the district judge's race on the Saturday democratic ballot, Bryan Poff listed contributions totalling $6954 and expenditures of $7375.

His contributions include a $5000 loan from an Amarillo bank and contributions from 23 individuals. The largest contribution is $400 from Joe Batson of Amarillo. A $250 contribution from B.M. Brittain is listed as well as a $150 contribution from Jay Taylor of Amarillo.

The contribution and expenditure record of O.M. Calhoun, candidate for the judge's bench, was incomplete at week's end in the secretary of state's office. It was complete only through the end of March and showed contributions at that time of $4687 and expenditures of $455. He listed 55 contributors, the largest of which was $600 from J.J. Kimble of Amarillo. He received $500 from Roy Snodgrass Jr. and $400 each from T.R. McGuire and himself. He received nine $10 contributions from officials of Amarillo National Bank and $100 each from J.A. Whittenburg and S.B. Whittenburg.

A file on campaign expenditures could not be found in the secretary of state's office for Herbert C. Martin, a third candidate in the district judge race.

An ordinance annexing more than a half section of land north of the current Hunsley Hills addition will be considered.

The annexation was asked by Hunsley Developer A.W. Lair. He has already turned in a preliminary plat on the further northern development of the area. The development is to include more than 600 lots as planned.

If annexation is approved by commissioners, they will have taken an historic step since the annex request is the largest in city history.

blind." Loudder said. The program will be "aimed at hiring the most qualified person for each job."

Loudder said the city does not discriminate now in hiring practices but the affirmative action program will simply put in written form the policies used for hiring and promotion and salary hikes.

A firm now evaluating the city's personnel policies to suggest a new personnel salary schedule is also eyeing the policies for any possible conflicts with state or federal law, Loudder said. Their report will aid in the development of the affirmative action program.

Loudder said the city currently does not have any minority group employees.

The 20,000 head capacity feedlot was caught up in financial problems in early to mid-April when area banks called in notes and forced the lot to close.

Gist and other directors told The News at the time the lot closed that they weren't sure exactly what circumstances prompted the financial bind.

The lot has been the scene of rapid transport of cattle from the yard under the eye of armed guards. It was the scene a week ago of an alleged shooting incident involving one of the guards and Dan Bedwell, son of Wayne Bedwell, former manager of the feedyard.

No charges have been filed concerning the shooting incident.

Randall County sheriff's deputies have also been at the yards to ensure a calm removal of all cattle.

Current directors of the Happy Wheat Growers include Gist, Earl Reynolds, Carl Sims, Bill Dugan, Henry Hamblin, Milton McGehee and Clyde Hancock.

The feedyard was opened in 1969 by the Wheat Growers, a group which formed in the 1930s.

Regents. . .

Among faculty and staff changes to be announced at the meeting will be a new configuration for the administration staff.

Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins, university president, is expected to include in a report to the regents his new administrative staff structure.

Already it is known the new administrative configuration will include one less vice president. Dr. Kenneth Laycock, vice president for research and development, has announced his resignation. He will return to teaching.

Dr. Watkins has said the new configuration will bring research at the university more into relationship with the academic function of the university.

A new administrative position, that of assistant to the academic vice president, is expected to be eyed by the regents.

Another major item of business facing the regents will be approval for the issuance of $390,000 in bonds for use in campus buildings.

Hospital. . .

and daily increases in costs are experienced on most other items the hospital uses.

Looking to the future to the time when the new hospital now under construction for the South Randall County Hospital District is completed and ready for occupancy, Grimes said the room rates to be charged in the new hospital will be determined more by wage demands and inflationary trends than simply by the fact that the new hospital is in operation.

"Just going into a new hospital will not affect our costs greatly," he said. "Additional salary increases and inflation will be the factors."

Construction of the new hospital is expected to be completed by Nov. 1 and the hospital is expected to be open shortly after the first of next year.

While inflation and salary hikes may have some impact on room charges between now and the time the new hospital opens, Grimes said pressure is also brought to bear on the local system by the salary increases given at Northwest Texas Hospital.

Grimes said he is not now sure how much salary increase was given all employees at that Amarillo hospital. But, he said, if the salary increases pushed salaries well above the salaries paid at Neblett, the problem will be one of finding qualified personnel to work in the hospital.

Neblett will almost be forced to compete for personnel and that competition could have an effect on room rates.

Water. . .

changed somewhat in relation to the governor's office study.

The original WTSU proposal would have a center funded for the campus with research to focus on the water resources, needs and applicable solutions for the Panhandle and South Plains area.

Proposed annual budget for the center would be $35,000.

Garner Receives Nursing Stipend

Eddie Garner, Canyon senior, and other members of the first graduating class of the West Texas State School of Nursing were honored with a brunch April 27.

Garner was named the recipient of the High Plains Baptist Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship for $100. The award was given on academic performance.

The 14 senior nursing students gave a plaque to the School of Nursing department as a class gift. The plaque held names of all seniors in the first class with a replica of the new department's pin which Garner had designed earlier in the year.

Department head, Dr. Hazel Alakson, accepted the plaque on behalf of the department. The brunch was given by senior sponsors, Dr. Alakson, Danna Strength and Jeannie Henager.

Churchlife Happenings

Editor's Note: The following column will become a new feature for the Canyon Sunday News regarding life and activities for all our city churches and will be compiled from the various church newsletters. Local churches which do not publish and send newsletters to the newspaper may forward notes and information regarding activities of their church to the Canyon News, P.O. Box 779, or call the news office to report.

Two young men who present popular gospel songs in concert will appear Wednesday evening, May 8, at 8 p.m. in the ballroom of the Activities Center on the campus of West Texas State University. The gospel singers, Jim Sunderwirth and Lenn Roberts, will present the program under sponsorship of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

The gospel song program is open to all interested persons. A love offering will be taken.

First Baptist Church of Canyon will sparkle with youth participation today, May 5, with junior high, high school and college students taking part in Youth Sunday activities at the church.

The youths will participate in Sunday School music programs as well as the musical devotional at the morning worship services where Rev. Bill Foil, pastor, will speak.

Sunday evening, Kim Broadstreet will give the message. Broadstreet is president of the Baptist Student Union on campus.

Following the evening worship service, the church youths will provide an after-church fellowship for adults in the basement Fellowship Hall.

Canyon Hills Church of Christ women's group will view and discuss a filmstrip dealing with India Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. Guest moderator for the filmstrip will be Baxter Lee.

Official dedication rites for the new United Pentecostal Church of Canyon will be announced soon, according to Rev. Calvin Rashall. The congregation recently purchased a church site at 1319 5th Avenue where services are conducted each week.

The Women's Council of St. Ann's Catholic Church will meet Wednesday evening, May 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Alex Tenorio, 15 Country Club Drive.

Plans for a new social and education center were revealed by the council and design committee at a General Assembly of St. Ann's Catholic Parish held Wednesday evening at the Episcopal Center here.

A church school workers appreciation dinner was held at the United Methodist Church, April 25. Plans for the event were directed by Peggy Jones, dinner chairman, and included Jo Jackson as emcee with Willis Harrison and Bill Kent on the appreciation extension to church school workers. Entertainment included musical selections by Dennis Goetsche and Rick Mantooth with Jerry Wynn providing a bit of magic.

Ordination rites for Robert Edwards, O. C. Free and Jim Walker as deacons for the Calvary Baptist Church of Canyon and Calvin Burtis to the gospel ministry field will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday. Ordination speaker will be B. L. Davis, pastor of the San Jacinto Baptist Church in Amarillo. The program is open to all interested persons.

Ceramics and terrariums are a current project of the Women's Missionary Council of the Assembly of God Church in Canyon. Council members meet each Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the church Fellowship Hall to work on projects. The ceramic items and terrariums will be sold to raise funds to aid with mission projects. Last year, the WMC raised over $1,000 making boots for sale to aid missions.

Evangelist Nicodemus Metuma spoke to the congregation of the Central Church of Christ recently concerning the work of missions in Rhodesia with contributions of $438 being collected at the meeting for furthering the Rhodesian mission work.

United Campus Ministries will host a final activity for university students this evening, Sunday, at 6 p.m. beginning with a dinner at the Methodist Center on campus and concluding with an agape service and fellowship for students.

Testimony by professional athlete, Jim Livingston, will be given at the 11 a.m. worship services of Calvary Baptist Church this morning, May 5. Livingston, 22, is married and lives in San Diego, Calif. He is a professional gymnast specializing in trampoline, and is a graduate of Penn State University. The testimonial service is open to all interested persons.

Over $300 thousand in bonds were bought by members and friends of the United Methodist Church of Canyon in the early stages of a bond program for a new church building. Modern Blender Tricks Discussed By HD Agent

"Blender Tricks for Moderns" was the topic of the program presented by Becky Hall, Randall County Home Demonstration Agent, during the month of April as she visited each club in the county to present the program.

Club members were invited to provide their blenders and become aware of the versatility of this small electrical appliance which is an aid to many homemakers.

Hints and tricks that help a homemaker be more successful when using the blender were listed by Mrs. Hall including the following:

— Put liquid portions of the recipe in the blender first unless the recipe specifically instructs otherwise.

— Cut firm vegetables and fruits, cooked meats, fish and other seafood into pieces about one inch or smaller. Cut cheese into pieces no larger than 1/2 inch after it has been frozen.

When whipping cream blend for a very short period to keep it from making into butter. — Place the cover firmly on the blender container before starting and stopping the blender's motor.

— Work with small amounts of food for best results.

Mrs. Hall reports that whole meals and snacks can be prepared using the blender. A majority of the clubs prepared foods from three of the four food groups at their various meetings.

Among the foods prepared

Omelet-Crepe Demonstration Set Tuesday

"Omelets and Crepes" will be treated with the proper touch in a special demonstration Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Canyon High School home economics department.

The program will be presented by Mrs. Connie Bralley of Albuquerque, N.M., for the home economics and French classes of the high school and other interested persons.

Sponsoring the program at the local school will be the Alliance Francaise of Canyon-Amarillo.

Local Women At State TFWC In San Antonio

Two Canyon women left this week end for the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs state convention in San Antonio. Attending the 4-day state event are Mrs. Larry Brandon, who was selected as the new district junior director for the Top of Texas District, and Mrs. Don Max Vars, immediate past president of the Top of Texas District.

Accompanying the two women from Canyon will be Mrs. David Britt of Wheeler, new president of the Top of Texas District of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

were main dishes of ham or chicken spread and dip, vegetables and fruits in cole slaw and fruit gelatins; with plain muffins for bread and a Maple chiffon pie for dessert.

Tips which the homemakers shared were the following procedures:

— Bread crumbs can be made by tearing one slice of fresh or dry bread into six pieces, placing in blender container with cover and blend until crumbled. For finer crumbs, allow blender to operate a longer period. For buttered bread crumbs, simply butter the bread slice and proceed as for regular bread crumbs.

— Make sour cream by blending cottage cheese.

— Make powdered sugar from granulated sugar.

— Grind your own coffee beans and whole spices in the blender. Place about 1/2 cup of the spice in blender container, cover and process at high speed until desired grind is obtained.

— Make white sauce easier. Simply blend ingredients together thoroughly before cooking for smoother consistency.

— Puree table foods for the baby.

— Reconstitute dry milk and frozen fruit juices using the blender. Place the concentrated juices or milk solids with the correct amount of water into the blender container, cover and process on low speed.

— Make your own cracker crumbs by breaking 7-8 crackers into the blender container and blending until crumbled to consistency desired. Do the same with cookies and graham crackers for pie crust crumbs.

Among Mrs. Hall's recipe selections used at the various club meetings was an easy "Maple Chiffon Pie" using the blender which is included with this article. Mrs. Hall's other recipes for the blender will be printed in succeeding issues of both The Canyon Sunday News and Canyon News as space permits so be watching for the recipes using the blender.

Football widows eat your heart out. As if high school football on Friday night, college football on Saturday afternoon, NFL on Sunday afternoon and the Monday night program were not enough, there will be a Thursday night pro game come this fall. The World Football League will begin their season July 18, and sure enough television will be there.

Though Canyon wives may hope for a reprieve, an Amarillo television station plans to carry 12 or 13 of the WFL games. Most of the games will be played on Thursday nights though some of the games will be carried on television at 10:30 p.m. Saturday nights. All WFL play-off and championship games will be carried according to the TV spokes-man.

There may be one bright spot on the horizon for the ladies though. According to the three Amarillo stations they do not seem likely to carry Canadian football this summer. What a shame.

Speaking of the WFL, Jim Sullivan, who will be playing in that league this year for the California Suns, visited the Canyon Lions Club last Wednesday. He shared with Lions his faith in Christ and the work of Athletes in Action. Sullivan, a most likeable man, fielded questions following his speech. One of the questions concerned itself with the probability of the WFL getting off the ground. Sullivan replied that for his sake and his family's sake he hoped it did.

For some of the players it will not matter quite as much. Most of them have at least one more year left in the NFL and their contract with the WFL guarantees a percentage of the money they signed for whether the league gets off the ground or not. If the WFL does not get off the ground, the NFL teams will probably be glad to keep them.

Speaking of insurance, the WFL probably would like insurance against injuries to players like Larry Czonka who will bring "big-name" football to their league.

Ed Mooney, who has played pro football for the Baltimore Colts for the past seven years, told me that all the pro athletes had respect for the WFL. Mooney was in Canyon this week with Athletes in Action. He said that it would allow more players the opportunity to get into the game. He said that during the next two or three years the WFL will have to operate like a semi-pro league till the big names begin to play for them.

Collier also participated in basketball and tennis in the high school athletic program. He was a member of the starting lineup on the district basketball team.

Selections for players on the bowl teams are made by the Childress Chamber of Commerce. Only seniors are eligible to play.
